Tamarack Hosting the Idaho Learn To Ski Day Resort outfitting and teaching 300 people how to ski or snowboard for free on Saturday, December 16

DONNELLY, ID (November 29, 2017) – Tamarack Resort will be hosting the Idaho Learn to Ski Day on December 16th with the hope of teaching 300 people how to ski or snowboard in a single day. This program is completely free to the participants and includes everything a person would need to learn the sports of skiing or snowboarding including a ticket, equipment rental and lesson.

The Idaho Learn to Ski Day is available to anyone 13 years of age or older who have never had a chance to ski or snowboard. This program is being offered by Tamarack as a way to breakdown any barriers to learning these winter sports.

“This year our employees wanted a way to bring the joy of skiing and snowboarding to more people. Additionally, our staff feels as if we have a personal obligation to teach people the sports we love so much.” says Brad Larsen, General Manager at Tamarack Resort. Larsen continues, “This is a perfect opportunity for any Idahoan to learn to ski and snowboard. Everything is included and it’s 100% free.”

Each participant will receive a learning area lift ticket, a ski or snowboard rental and a 90-minute lesson. Plus, each participant will receive an offer to return to the resort for another visit at a discounted rate. The Idaho Learn to Ski Day is limited to 300 people, so reservations are required and can be made at <http://tamarackidaho.com/event/idaho-learn-ski-day>.

Tamarack Resort is currently preparing for the season and has a projected opening date of Friday, December 8 and will operate 7-days-a-week until April 1, 2018.
